MEDALIST CSPA — 1950, 1951, 1952

A black and white photograph of a group of people in a boat on a body of water. The scene is captured in high contrast, with the figures in the boat appearing as dark silhouettes against the lighter water. The background shows a dense line of trees along the shore, also in silhouette. The water has a textured, rippled appearance. The overall mood is serene and historical.

The School on the Hill

To Our Lady

WE the class of 1953 offer you, dear Lady of Fatima, this labor of love. Upon reaching this milestone in the history of our state, we pause to review its past one hundred fifty years and our last year together. Our yearbook and our hearts belong to you. Help us to remain always loyal to our Christian ideals and civic heritage. Beg for us, from your Divine Son, the courage and strength to build worthily on the foundations laid by our God-fearing ancestors. We give the Shamrock to you as a promise of our dedication to your Immaculate Heart, and as a year-long work of praise and thanksgiving.

GOVERNOR LAUSCHE PROCLAIMS SESQUI CELEBRATION

SESQUI CHAIRMAN HARVEY S. FIRESTONE, JR. VISITS MOTHER CLARE

Our Ohio Vista From A Vantage of 150 Years

FROM the vantage point of one hundred fifty years we can evaluate the forces of culture, education, and leadership in Ohio. These forces have combined to produce eloquent and influential statesmen, many institutions of higher learning, magnificent churches and renowned educators. From this vantage point, likewise, we look to the future, our future in Ohio, our future as leaders, educators, and statesmen. Thus we prepare at St. Vincent to take our place beside the pioneers of yesterday and the trail blazers of tomorrow.

The Home of Presidents

OHIO presents to us, her citizens of the future, a heritage of governmental leadership. Outstanding sons of Ohio, such as William McKinley, James A. Garfield, and William Howard Taft, have instilled into us a spirit of loyalty to God and country. Through our years as students we, the seniors, have prepared ourselves to take our places as citizens of the world of tomorrow. The school is our proving ground; the world, our mission. The traditions of our forefathers are the gospels we must preach to the waiting world. The hope of the future lies in us, the youth of today. We have learned leadership in the school of example from the teacher of the great—Ohio—the home of presidents.

"No man is good enough to govern another man without that other's consent."

CHARACTER, scholarship, leadership, and service are the requirements for entrance into the National Honor Society. Under the direction of president M. Reiter, the students plan the activities for the year. October found the members selling the Shamrocks for Friendship Day; proceeds were used to buy an American flag. The society donated a CARE package as a Christmas present, and N. H. S. members searched for acts for the Annual Talent Show in February. March saw seniors plunging into the General Aptitude Test. Members gave their help to the Alumni book, a record of the activities of St. V. Honor Society alumni. Officers in the club are vice-president L. Ball, secretary M. Kraus, and treasurer T. Fellingner and R. Metcalfe. Faculty sponsor is Sister Loretta.

PROUDLY WE HAIL

WITH OLD GLORY waving in the background, Eddie Danemiller derives inspiration from a statue of William McKinley, a famous Ohio president. The monument is located on the grounds of the Ohio State Capitol Building, in Columbus. A gleam of hope in his eye, Eddie typifies the spirit of the senior class; they will strive to achieve goodness and greatness, as did other Ohio citizens. Members of the yearbook staff visited Ohio's Capital to gather data for their theme, and copy.

Rings Express Fidelity

FOR THE FIRST TIME, the Seniors were given their rings at a ceremony on Sunday night. The parents were invited and the school choir sang. Father William Cosgrove, formerly the athletic director of Saint Vincent, gave the address. Monsignor Conry blessed the rings and presented them to us with the help of James Sturmi and Bernadette Slaven.

A Leader in Education

OHIO presents a challenge to us, the students, through her excellent institutions of learning. Elementary schools were established early in the history of our great state and promises of high schools followed in a short time. The universities of Ohio are ranked among the finest of the nation. Ohio University at Athens was a pioneer in higher learning in the Northwest Territory while Western Reserve University is known as the "Yale of the West." Oberlin was the first coeducational college in the United States. Day by day we strive to meet this challenge in our classes. Courses in languages, sciences, mathematics, and social studies prepare us for our roles in keeping Ohio a leader in education.

“. . . and next, the pall,” explained Father Speight to a group of sophomore religion students. Patricia Grifa, Charles Gilbride, and Steve DeJacimo watched intently as Father Speight described the proper procedure for dressing the chalice for Mass. He then explained the order in which the vestments are put on by the priest for Mass. Father also showed the students how the ciborium is prepared for the distribution of Holy Communion. The sophomores find that learning about the symbolism of the vestments and the sacred vessels used in the Mass can be both challenging and inspiring. The connection between the life of Christ and the sacrifice of the Mass is shown in the course offered to the sophomore class. Their motto “Toward heaven together” completes the theme of their study.

CENTER OF ATTRACTION

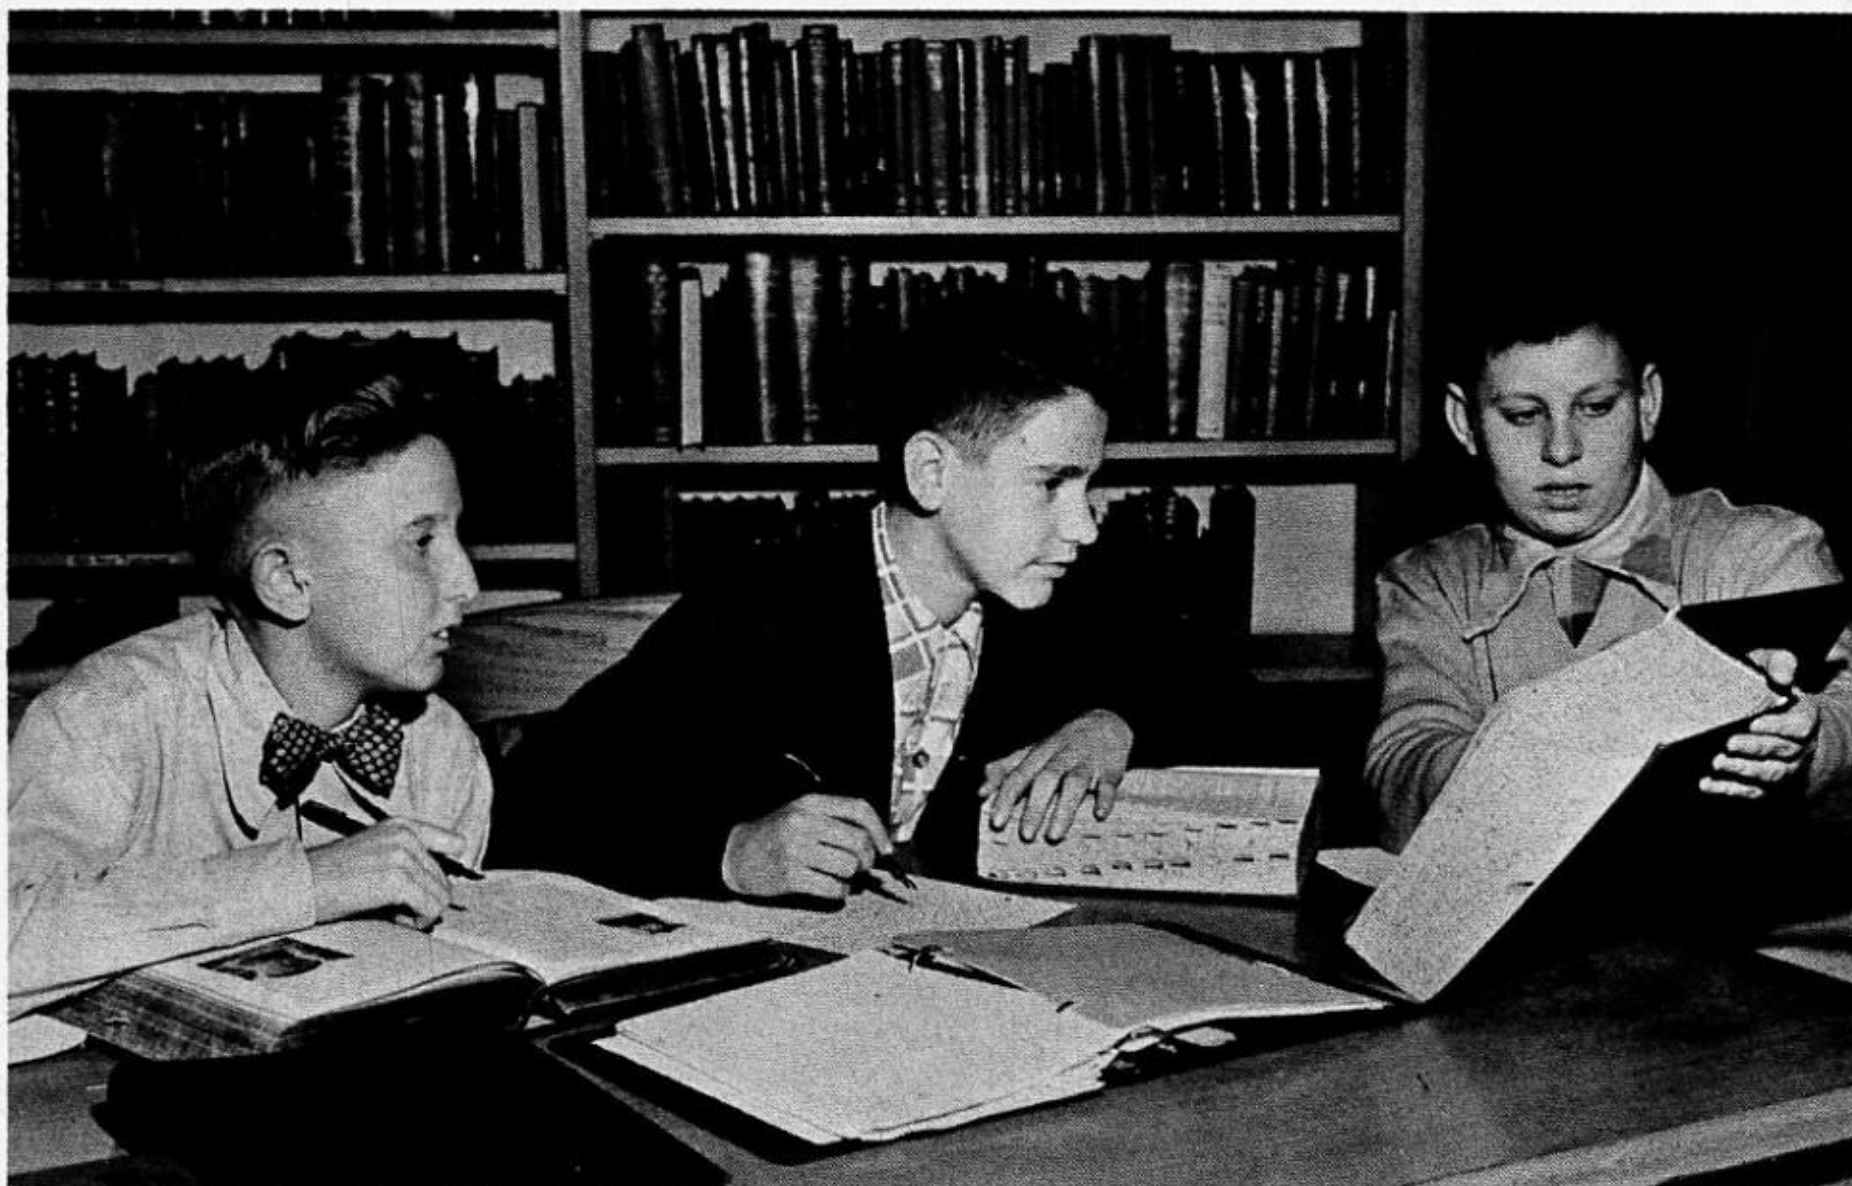

... That We May Serve

RIGHT: Representing St. Vincent in the "I Speak for Democracy" contest were juniors Carole McGuckin and Don Schorr. An English project, it featured their ability to write as well as to present their speech. Following rehearsals, a recording was made at station WAKR. BELOW: "Is this the word?" queries John Kane as he, Ed Palazzo and John Cozzens wind up their English papers. These freshmen are acquainting themselves with the library.

STAR GAZING

TWO JUNIOR BOYS, Tom Gruber and Martin Powers, explain the mystery of their homemade telescope to an interested freshmen audience and Sister Imelda. Martin demonstrates how he and Tom fashioned odd bits of pipe, glass, and scrap metal into a telescope capable of perceiving distant objects. Jack Fitzgerald and Steve Kraus are eager to peer into a window of the Tower Building downtown.

FRANK HOLLISH stares in amazement as Brian Scott finds a wandering point. Junior Dolores Gill is confident as she holds the answer in her hands. This year's Algebra II class soon finds that the best way to solve a quadratic equation is by graphing. They also discover that it is easier said than done. Parabolas, circles, and ellipses present puzzling drawings. The problem of $x=y$ prepares our juniors for more difficult work next year.

... Then Go Ahead"

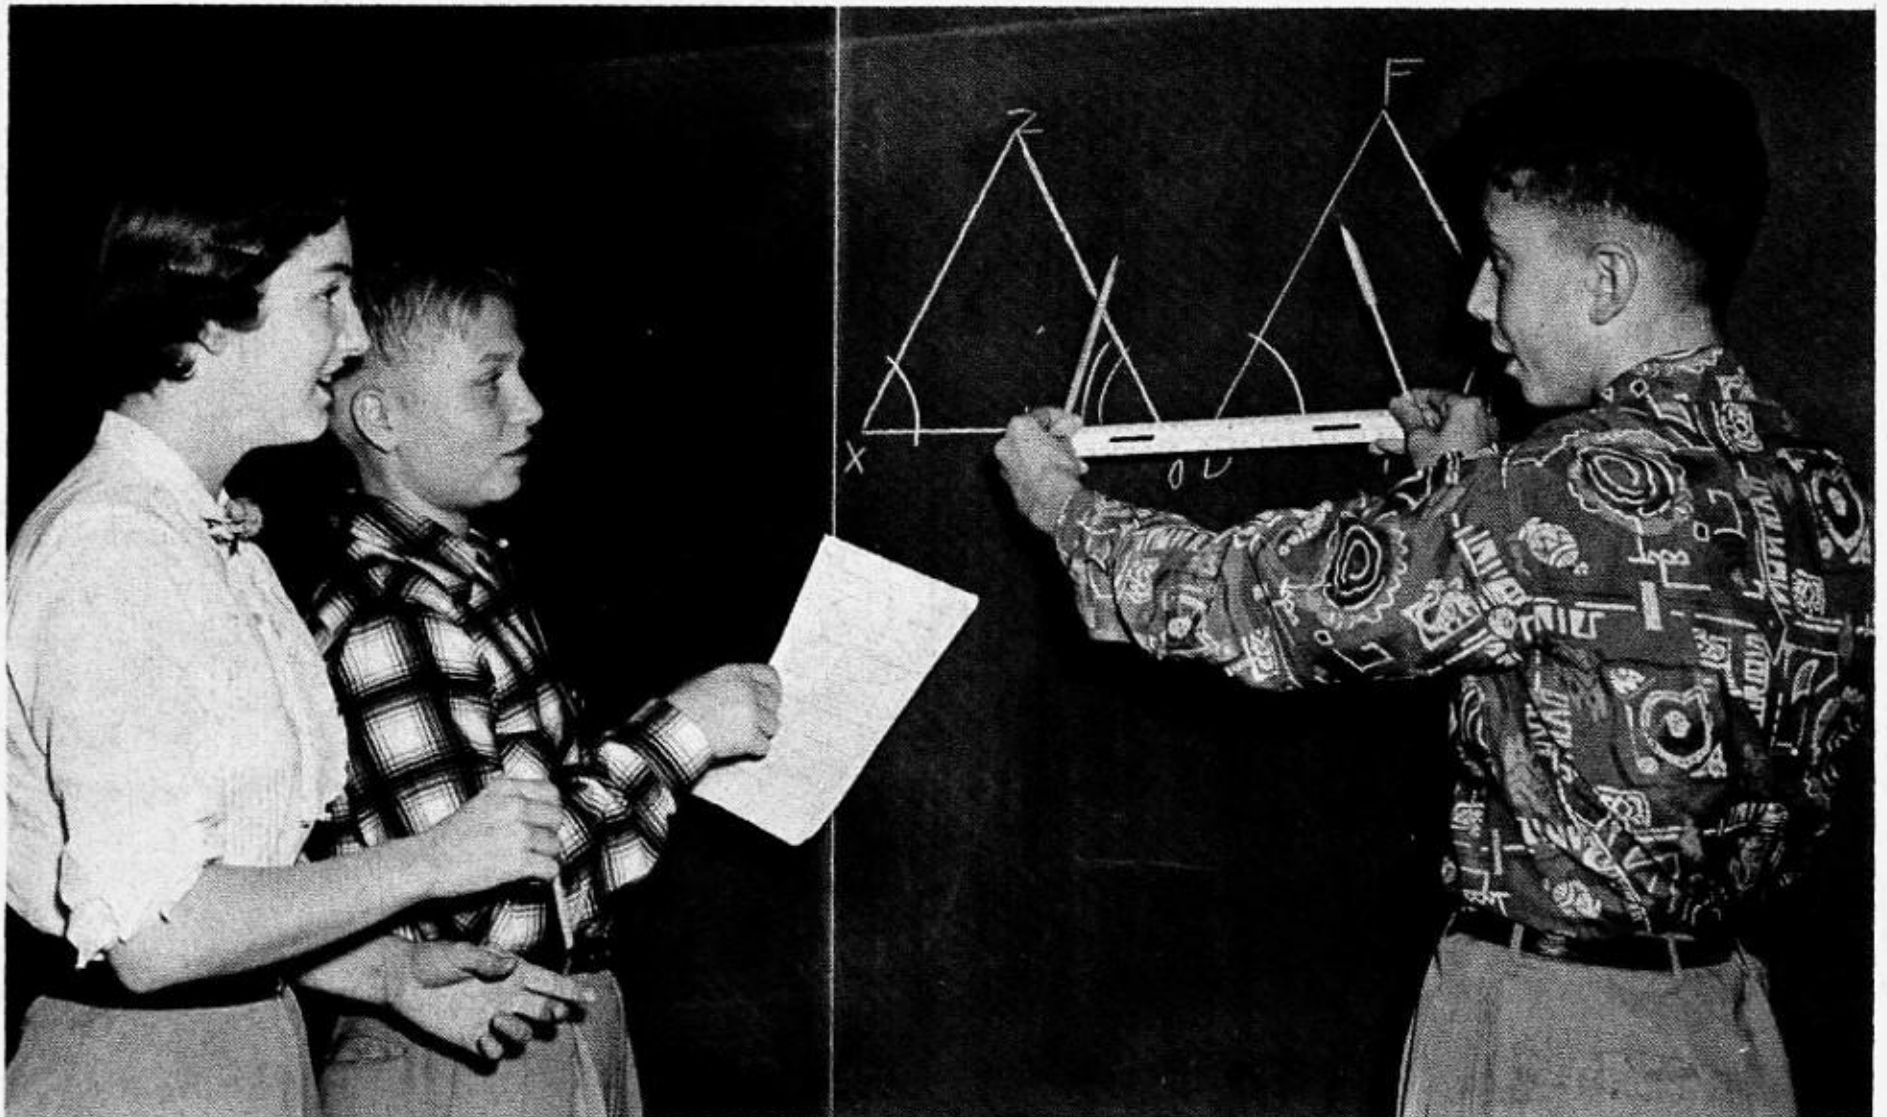

DEEDS NOT WORDS

As the biology exhibit approaches, the sophomores turn to the experienced juniors for help. Junior Mary Conlon explains her accomplishment to the struggling sophomores Charles McGuckin, Frances Vorwerk, and Linda Lembo. Behind Mary lie the efforts of past years. The biology exhibit, seen in the science laboratory, is an annual affair in which sophomores display mental and manual skills.

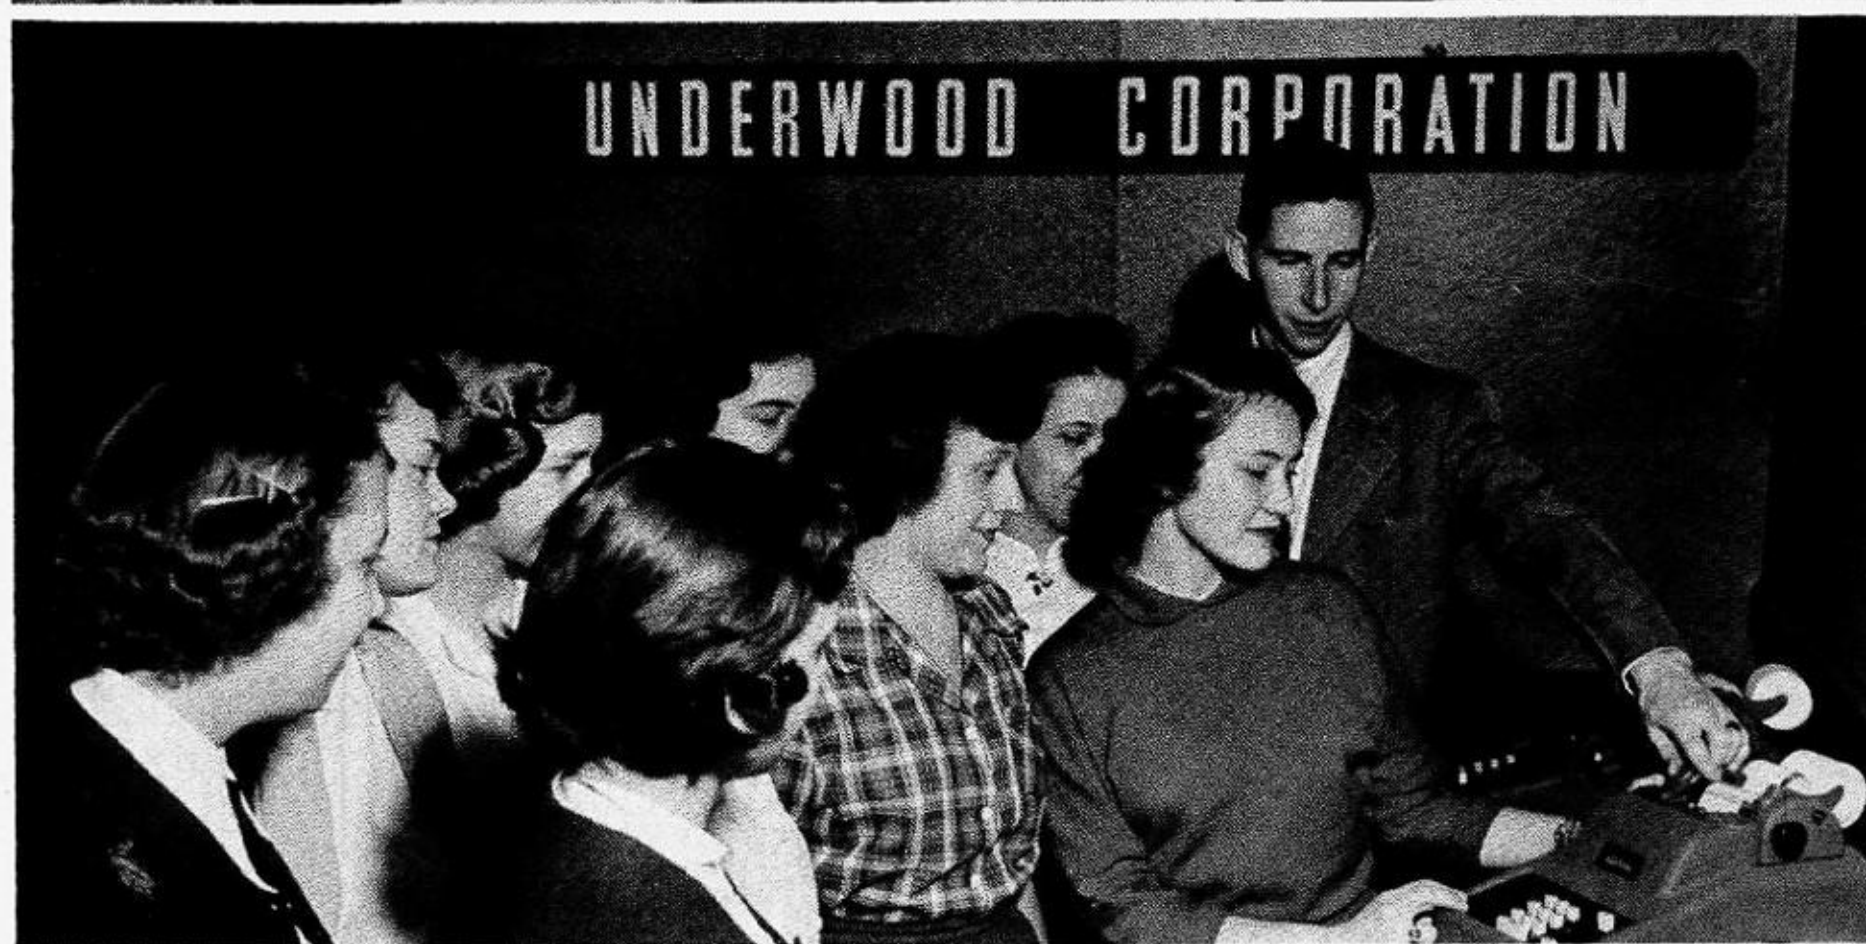

A PERPLEXING PROBLEM is solved by perseverance and a trusted theorem. Prof Bill Arvin is trying to shed some light on the situation as Dick Roesch wonders whether all geometry is as tough as this. Ann Walter, however, has that understanding look. The triangles must be congruent because two angles and a side of one equal two angles and a side of the other. "Those are consecutive angles and sides, of course," inserts "Professor" Arvin.

Do the Day's Work

ABOVE: The demonstrator at the Remington Rand Company shows business students the intricacies of filing. Margaret Elmauer, Jeri Schafer, and Dolores Poje find it a very fascinating system. In the center Carol Rolph, Hildegard Brendel, Barbara Sullivan, and Shirley Dronick agree that it is an efficient method of locating needed material. To the right are Pattie Dadik and Rhae Metcalfe. Field trips like these give commercial students a preview of their future office practice.

BELOW: Members of the advanced business classes were guests of the Underwood Corporation where Mr. Paul Frank Jr. conducted a tour. Florence Baumgardner, Nancy Houk, Catherine Allman, Patricia McCafferty, Mary Jane Mancini, Carol Morea, Mary Ann Shields and Mary Julia Shircliff seem to be deeply interested in the adding machine that is being explained by Mr. Frank. As future members of the business world these girls will find this material not only interesting but also useful.

Heed the Nation's Call

BELOW: Sophomores Bernard Gannon, Gene-rose Gill, and Zaunia Becker compare the similar flags of countries comprising the United Nations organization. Symbols of the ideals of the various countries are represented in the designs of the flags which are a prized addition this year to the library. These world history students are wondering why Pakistan and Turkey have similar flags. Their thoughtful mood is quite in keeping with their study of the U N as an instrument of peace.

BOTTOM: While the whole nation awaited the outcome of election returns, Saint Vincent students joined in raising the tempo of interest in national balloting by promoting a mock election in the school. Campaigns are over; the great day has arrived. Martha McGrath, Joan Dalrymple and Chalker Fadel make their final choice in the big race as Patrick Walsh, Dennis Shaul, Dolores McMuldren and Reynolds Farley act as officials in Precinct Nine, the freshman voting area.

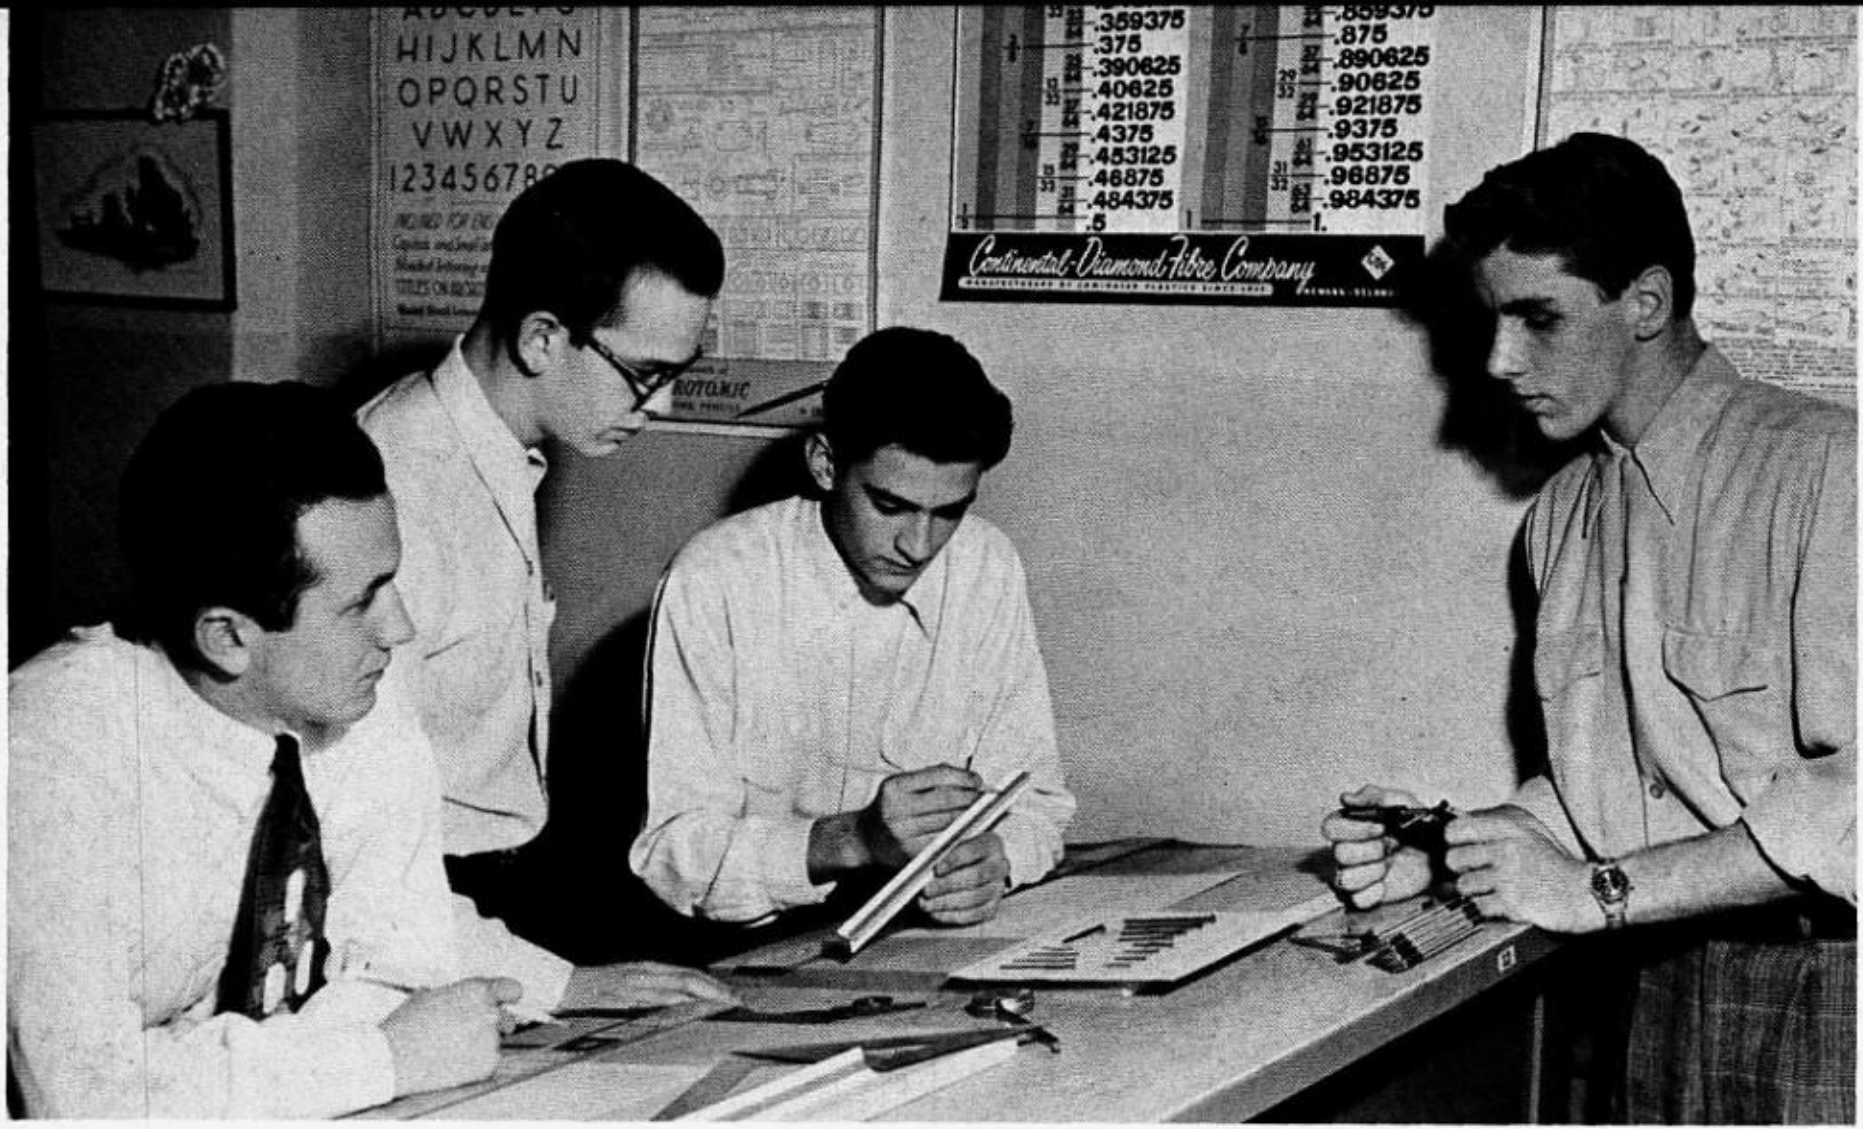

Skilled Hands, Keen Minds . . .

ABOVE: The new Necchi, recently purchased for the home economics course, is being tested for all its unique devices. Sister Dominica shows Edna Haren, Carol Coulter, Patricia Marks and Barbara Krizancic how to braid a tablecloth. This is just one of the many new features that the Necchi can perform. It even sews on buttons!

... Build Happy Lives

ABOVE: Mechanical drawing students Alfred Wolf, Robert Reiheld, and David Heaton are impressed by Mike Mondello's explanation of the markings on the edges of the ruler. The boys interested in developing creative ability in scales, lines, and angles find this course intensely practical and many continue to study it in college or use it in industry.

BELOW: In driver education students learn the mechanism and operation of a car and the Ohio driving laws and regulations. Joe Duve explains the importance of safe driving to Marilyn Stimler, Judy Roelle, and Dick Janus. Mr. Malagio supervises the students behind the wheel. Believe it or not, women can learn to drive as well as men.

The Past Comes to Life

ROMAN CULTURE lives again at the fingertips of Jerry Frient. History repeats itself in the form of miniature ships and devices of war. The mighty oars of the galley ship plow through the sea of time to help students relive the battles of history. In these battles fierce sword-play determined the fate of the adventurers. Such swords were the only defense. Their designs are centuries old but vivid to students because of these replicas.

NOW AND THEN

FRESHMEN Joanne Bachmann and Jerry Collins explain their Latin I projects to Shamrock copy editor Colette Falardeau. Jerry is exhibiting buildings of the present day, while Joanne correspondingly explains her research on the old Roman buildings. Although Latin classes are concerned mainly with learning the language, the students do a variety of projects, investigating the history of the Roman people.

We Build Ohio Manpower

"DON'T BEND your knees," warns Fred Lombardi as he anchors classmate Russ Pier's feet. Russ believes that "practice makes perfect." Steve Kraus concentrates on sophomore Jay Sullivan's attempt to touch his elbow to his knee. The boys soon realize the necessity of physical fitness. The daily gym classes give the boys a chance to develop their skills. These skills are demonstrated during the season's football and basketball games.

NOW OR NEVER

CAROL FASSNACHT, Pat Ink and Molly Jo Hunter watch intently as Peggy Stimpfel prepares for the tell-tale shot. Inter-class games round out the stimulating study of basketball. Mrs. Florin, the whistle-bearer of the classes, steps in and decides dubious plays. Volley-ball, baseball, ping pong, calisthenics and square dancing highlight the year's activities. The blue-clad athletes enliven the gym in all seasons.

THE ELEMENT of surprise, a fighting heart, and football know-how led the Irish of '52 to the best football record in the locality. Posting a record of seven wins, two losses and one deadlock, the Irish proved themselves to be the pride of Akron. The Irish were truly a miracle team boasting only five lettermen to begin their rugged season. On Bob Brizes, Joe Elio, Chuck Pfeil, Larry Foore, and Carl Martin lay the tremendous task of bolstering the team. The boys were small and the team was green, but became more powerful and potent as the season rolled on. Falling under the spirited green and white were Kenmore, Ravenna, Canton Central, West, Buchtel, St. Mary, and Cuyahoga Falls. The team was set back only twice, once by the public school champion, East, early in the season, and once more with an injury riddled team by the Central Wildcats. The educated toe of Martin Testa after the touchdown by Chuck Pfeil was only enough to tie the score against the highly-rated Barberton Magics. Spearheading the Irish attack throughout the autumn activities were John Costello, Ronnie D'Alessio, Carl Gessler, Adeb Haddad, Dave McKoski, Jerry Myers, Tom Baldacci, Bill Curley, Lenny Gmerek, Jack Mars, Jerry Maurer, Chuck Reymann, and Eddie Taggart. Credit is due the rest of the team and a salute to the followers for their moral support. To the senior members of the varsity, congratulations and thanks are in order in bringing the parochial championship, and the best won-lost record in the district to the school in many years.

"ON THE BALL"

THE IRISH opened their "52" season with a victory over a highly rated Kenmore team 7-0.

The taste of defeat met the Irish for the first time under the city champs, East, 27-12.

After their loss, the Irish, with the best offensive of the year, whipped Ravenna 41-13.

St. V. proved to be too much for the battling Catholics from Canton as the Irish won 20-0.

Spotting the Wildcats 13 points, Irish defense was penetrated for 19 points by Central.

St. V. ended the long rivalry with West by the outstanding shut-out of the year, 35-0.

A late T. D. and tight defense halting a Barberton drive gave the Saints a 7 to 7 deadlock.

A thundering offense crushed Buchtel 40-6, and handed St. V. the West Hill Championship.

A potent Irish thrust the St. Mary team to defeat for the fifth year by a score of 13-7.

Surprise proved to be the deciding factor against the Falls as the Irish won 27-14.

EARLY BIRDS

THE IRISH golf team of '52 had a truly successful season, losing only two matches.

The three Jims—Meadows, Mulhearn, and Hallinan, were consistent in their low scores, and we hope R. Vargo and M. Shields (right) do as well this year.

LACK OF EXPERIENCE, height, and the new foul rule led the Irish to a disastrous season only in the record column. Throughout the season they stood by the true meaning of athletics at St. Vincent, by spirited play, and the ability to take defeat graciously. The greatest disappointment to the hoopsters was given them by St. Mary who took the team on both schools' floors. The season was not all gloom, however, for victories were scored over East, Kent Roosevelt, Warren Harding, Hower, and West. The most impressive contest of the season was played against the potent Garfield Presidents. The game was lost in overtime, but the green and white exhibited their potential ability for the future against the team that did not taste loss once during season play. Special recognition is due Jack Mars, who scored forty-two points for a school, city, and district individual scoring record. This accomplishment proved helpful in his selection to the all city second team. His continued progress throughout the season and expert play on the backboards was a tremendous assistance to the "green" team. It was only fitting that this was climaxed by his individual effort in the last game in history against the West Cavaliers. The senior class was represented by few in number but the three cagers—Cletus Young, Adeb Haddad, and Mike Sullivan—made up for it in spirit. Note must also be taken of the progress and spark shown by sophomore, Ray Sadley, who dumped in more than twenty points in each of two games and secured a place on the all city third team. Junior, Ronnie Vargo, proved to be an up and coming star as he fought his way to a first place berth.

THE 1952-1953 IRISH cagers were a scrappy team; despite a losing season, the Irish were always in there fighting. The green team was built around Jack Mars, the towering center. Len Gmerek's floor generalship meant much to the team. Ronnie Vargo, a consistent scorer, and a great clutch player, will be back next year. Mike Sullivan, small but mighty, completed his last season of varsity ball. Adeb Haddad's talented hookshot, plus Cletus Young's drive and fire, sparked the Irish to a near tournament upset.

"SWEET ANGELS"

Guardian of Culture

FOR THE PAST one hundred fifty years beautiful Ohio has been the inspiration for lyric and song, sculptors' tools and painters' brushes, poets' lines and authors' novels. Guarding this precious heritage, Ohio invites all to visit Ohio State Museum, Orton Memorial Library, Cleveland Art Museum and Cain Park Theater. The brightest facet of Ohio's culture is her religious development; she boasts of nine thousand churches and temples of all denominations. As students, we endeavor to appreciate this heritage of culture through participation in extra-curricular activities. Clubs, music organizations, dances, and athletic events offer opportunities to develop with Ohio as the guardian of culture.

"Culture is to know the best that has been said and thought in the world."
—MATTHEW ARNOLD.

Music Is the . . .

THE NEWLY organized Modern Music Masters strive to give our school a greater appreciation of music. Secretary Audrey Seib assists President Robert Monaci in explaining the symbol to Vice-President Regis Appeldorn, Historian Colette Falardeau and Librarian Carol Beesing. If a music student of the two years has a B average in music, he is eligible for membership. Masters' sponsor is Sister Aloysius. The club visited the Metropolitan Opera in Cleveland, to see "Carmen."

N. Lambert, M. Woodley, C. Salem, R. Caruso, A. Benko (first row), M. Mincica, R. Appeldorn, R. Monaci, M. Collins, P. Hayden, M. McCloud (second row), pose before they put on costumes to portray the carolers in "The Christmas Carol." Their voices blended harmoniously to the displeasure of old Scrooge.

M. Reiter, T. Viering, T. Hohnhorst, J. Herro, R. Sutterluety, E. Mutchler, R. Ruf, T. Ost, J. Bean, and D. Schorr are enjoying a few moments of relaxation before class. Sister Aloysius, with the cooperation of the members, has made progress in building a chorus of more than a hundred voices and in making it one of the finest in the history of Saint Vincent high school.

Ohioans Are Homemakers . . .

PICK AND CHOOSE

ANNE DENNIS, Mary Lou Hamilton, Dolores Ondas, Mary Ann Flynn and Mary Ann Tigelman are about to enjoy the refreshments at the annual Home Economics tea. The bulletin board was decorated with cookies formed into the nativity scene. Under the direction of the club sponsor, Sister Dominica, the juniors formed the dough into the well-known shapes. Six candles throw a glow of warmth over the table, set with a variety of cookies, punch, and small candies. Two little sleighs filled with candy and pulled by eight tiny reindeer bring the spirit of the season to the atmosphere. Another activity of the club includes the annual style show. Clothes are made and modeled by the students of the Home Ec Club. Officers for the year are president, Audrey Seib; secretary, Joyce Querry; senior treasurers, Dolores Ondas. and Rita Zarling.

...With An Artistic Touch

ARTISTIC STITCHES

THE SCHOOL'S newest club proudly claims to be the best. Taking residence in its new room with new equipment, the Art Club strives to contribute culture to the school. Their crowning achievement is the decoration of the office display board for the pleasure of all the students. Most members agree with the club sponsor, Sister Vincentia, that portraits are the most interesting work of the year.

IMAGINATION lives within the art room. B. Snyder, S. Reymann, and J. Lindsay watch L. Ball finish his water color. J. Manko demonstrates the brayer, used to ink the block, to G. Keenan. They used this process to make Christmas cards.

ABOVE: Sister Vincentia stands by to help M. Skeese and C. Miller make plastic Christmas gifts. Art Students T. Seeman and R. Draper inspect their accomplishments as S. Beckwith displays her belt for J. Martinovich and M. McGrath.

"LIGHT OUT," calls Sister Leo as the Order of Business Efficiency Club prepares to see slides on the duties of a secretary. This club is composed of commercial students interested in gaining additional knowledge of the business world. A chart on filing in the background is a new addition to the vast source of references available to the members. The chief aim of the club during the past year was the advancement of interest in the study of filing. Movies were shown to club members and trips to local business offices were made. The girls sponsored a cup-cake sale and donated the proceeds to the new mimeograph machine purchased by the school. Catherine Allman, president, directed the various activities with the assistance of Margaret Elmauer, secretary, and Pattie Dadik, treasurer. Sister Leo is club sponsor.

CAMPAIGNERS FOR MARY

Ohioans Are Leaders

JUNIOR STATESMEN

"To WHAT Extent Should the Government Be Responsible for Social Welfare?" This topic plagues the seniors in the Junior Town Meeting. Before going on the radio they practice recording their speeches. M. Klocker conquers mike-fright as M. Reidy watches for loopholes. L. Barr smiles at his partner as J. Sturmi thinks of a good answer. The best debater will be chosen by the judges and will compete against other schools.

". . . and this statue of Harvey S. Firestone was executed by James Froser, former president of the National Sculptures Association." The members of the Chem-Phy Club and their advisers, Sister Aquinas and Sister Agnes, were taken on a tour of the Firestone Research Center. The Club was taken through the new research center as the monthly meeting. After watching the making of foam rubber, the members tried the rubber paint. Then the products were shown in a display. Bob Brizes, president, conducted the monthly meetings, at which figures in the field of science in Akron, were speakers. Other officers are Martin Powers, vice-president; Marilyn Abraham, secretary; and Jack Kilway, treasurer.

ANY GHOSTS IN SIGHT?

"OH DEAR! what a frightening array of ghosts and witches," cries Cathy McDonald. Larry Ciarrochi is astonished to find the gym invaded by characters from many tales of Hallowe'en witchcraft. Frankie Reynolds and his band supplied the music for "Moonlight Malarkey." The traditional Halloween doughnuts and cider were served from "cheery" black coffins.

Guests and Ghosts Mingle

"THE THING"

ABOVE: "Aiee!!" cries K. Doran, viewing her prize in Thanksgiving Drama Guild play. A. Vorwerk and J. Kilway share her alarm in finding a ghost, F. McVan. T. Marshall rattles the ghost's chains as cool, calm, and collected E. Mutchler calls the landlord to tell him there's "A Ghost in the House." RIGHT: Toni Benko helps John Manko put the finishing touch on the haunted house for the Hallowe'en dance. Jean Bowman and Tom Ost ready two "punkin heads" for "Moonlight Malarkey." A spooky atmosphere was created by spiders, bats, and witches' hands holding skulls. Gasps of delight rewarded sophomores for their efforts on this project.

For Now I Am . . .

IT'S A BARGAIN!

. . . In a Holiday Humor

A GIANT FOOTBALL surrounded by a cluster of colorful chrysanthemums formed the throne from which Anastasia Scott reigned as Queen at the Homecoming Dance. "Queen Scotty" was crowned by the co-captains of the football team, Chuck Pfeil and Bob Brizes, who also presented her with a football, autographed by the members of the football team. Sharing the limelight with Queen Scotty were her court attendants. Teresa Fellingner, Barb Bennett, Bernadette Slaven and Pat Bell pose behind their blooms while Nancy Clark steals a peek at the crowning. The girls waltzed in front of the throne to meet their escorts, Carl Gessler, Larry Foore, Chuck Pfeil, Adeb Haddad and Bob Brizes, respectively. Scotty shared her place of honor with Ronnie D'Alessio. Each girl was presented with a miniature football, souvenirs of a memorable evening. At the homecoming game, the court was again honored by the team and senior class. Vincentian editors, Tom Jesser and Rita Tersigni, surprised them with white chrysanthemums, tied with green ribbon. 'Twas a joyous football finale.

Christmas Festivities . . .

"ON A DIET?"

"WELL, if it isn't Mrs. Claus herself," chuckles junior Gil DeSante while Margaret Wiolland critically eyes the masterpiece re-created by her classmates. Meanwhile, "Mama" Claus seems to be beckoning the late comers to join the fun. The juniors chose this duplication of the decorations at the Rockefeller Center in New York as the centerpiece for the annual formal. Mrs. Claus' heavily-laden sleigh is drawn by multi-colored peacocks with angel-hair fans and plumes. The dark background of evergreens make a sharp contrast against the carpet of snow and the dresses of the dancers.

. . . End With Twelfth Night

"KING FOR A DAY"

FOLLOWING a French custom on the feast of the Magi, French Club members ate cakes in search of a charm. Crowning "king" J. Meadows are P. Casey, C. Pittenger, M. L. Patsy, C. Seikel, and C. O'Neil. The French Hat Show is another activity of the club led by President, L. Barr; Secretary, S. Meadows; Treasurer, B. Cullen; Historian, J. Scheatzle and Sister Thomas.

"Take two," smiles A. McGraw and M. Mincica as they give the Collins boys cookies at the formal. Tiny reindeer pulling a sleigh of mums make a centerpiece for the table. Formals sport the decorated gym as the dancers whirl.

"SWEETS FROM THE SWEET"

Make Believe . . .

A CHRISTMAS TOAST

ABOVE: "God bless us everyone," toasts Tiny Tim, portrayed by B. McGuckin. Joining in the Christmas wish are the older members of the Crachet Family, A. Vorwerk, T. Garlando, C. Rolph, V. Marshall, S. Meadows and B. Gannon. Sister Joseph and C. McGuckin enter into the spirit as another Christmas play ends. Also in the program was the chorus singing carols.

BELOW: "and they lived happily ever after." The cast of "The Christmas Carol" surrounded F. McVan, portraying Scrooge. The play is a story of Scrooge, a miser, who is convinced by ghosts that his ways are wrong. Left to right, they are D. Roberts, S. Schnur, M. Stimler, J. Hammontree, M. Cummins, C. Meusel. Seated are B. Kraker and narrator F. Duve.

CHANGE OF HEART

... Brings Enjoyment

CREATING ATMOSPHERE

GRILL work, balconies, and costumed figures made from cardboard, gaily colored, transformed the gym into the French Quarter of New Orleans. Student artists used their talents to make the pre-lenten Mardi Gras an unforgettable event. Above: Sister Thomas, faculty advisor, aids decorators Pat Bell, Marilyn Jost, Susie Meadows, and Blake Cullen, who were but a few of many who helped get the decorations ready for the big night. Intermission brought the grand march and the choosing of king and queen. The Indian Chief, Bill Shaughnessy and his little squaw Barbara Sullivan were the honored couple. Each received a silver cup as did their court composed of six other couples.

DEVILMENT

BALCONY CAPERS

EMERGING from the whirl of skirts and the flow of music, Bernadette Slaven, Chuck Pfeil, Dolores Wright and Bob Ruf comment on the decorations. Miniature ladies with pink parasols adorned the balcony at the annual Junior-Senior Prom. "Lovely Lady Dressed in Blue," was the theme. Strains of "Mother Beloved" and "Bring Flowers of the Rarest," filled the air. This was the evening of the year — the seniors' last school dance, at their Alma Mater.

STARS FOR A NIGHT

"WATCH your step, Marilyn," chuckles Ronnie Vargo as he greets Marilyn Abraham and Tom Jesser. Under classmen serving as doormen add an ultra-formal touch to the occasion. The couples made their grand entrances through the canopied doorway into a softly lighted, music filled hall. The beautiful spring night complemented perfectly the summery atmosphere created by pastel decorations within the gymnasium.

We Honor Our Queen

ABOVE: The gaiety ceases for the solemnity of the crowning of Our Blessed Lady. Margie Wozniak, escorted by Paul Gill, did the crowning. Mary Masturzo and Wally Witwer led the court of honor.

BELOW: Joan McKim seems to have a good deal to say in the direction of Barb Sullivan and Jerry Myers. Also taking advantage of the intermission are Jack Kilway, Nancy Morgan, and Herb Kerlee.

Vincentian Staff . . .

ABOVE: Members of the advertising and typing staffs, E. Dannemiller, P. Bean, B. Sullivan, and J. Kilway check spelling. M. Pittenger and M. Cummins examine the last issue as R. Metcalfe and R. Lasko pound the keys.

THE VINCENTIAN staff celebrated the school's centennial with special editions. Below: S. Statler, M. Patsy, and P. Casey watch M. Reiter and T. Cummins thread the projector. They used microfilm of newspapers as sources.

PROJECTING THE TRUTH

VINCENTIAN staff members "dug up" information about the centennial of St. Vincent School at the grave of one of our first teachers. They found he had to build his own desks and keep his room in order. Co-editors R. Tersigni and Tom Jesser with Sister Thomas planned this and many other interesting trips. Right, below: Students pause on the front steps to anxiously leaf through the newest edition of the Vincentian.

THE SHAMROCK staff traveled to find traces of old Ohio. Left, C. Falardeau uses the writing desk in the schoolhouse at Schoenbrunn village as L. Barr, A. Fahey, and R. Lasko check her copy. This village, a pioneer settlement in Ohio has been partially restored. Below, F. Hurcomb, M. Klocker, and M. Kehrle examine a "convertible" buggy of the 1890's; the wheels can be replaced by runners. Besides the buggy, the Simon Perkins mansion contained many other relics of the Ohio of the past one hundred fifty years.
